OAM: Falling Apart?

Recently several micronations have expressed their doubts in the Organisation of Active Micronations. The Organisation, which recently went through an election process, has been blasted by members. Sebastiano von Linden, King and Lord Governor of the Royal Republic of Eleytheria has said “The organisation is displaying a sort of lethleresque formality, which is not useful at all.” Von Linden says the organisation is too absorbed in it's leadership, that they cannot create a community of micronations interested in carrying out projects, and sanctioning discussions.

Some micronations are acting on this idea. The Kingdom of Wyvern has already left the organisation, and Landashir is expected to follow. President Parker I of Secundomia has “seriously considered” leaving the OAM, however no resolution has been proposed.
